Christiano Mazziotti • Redmond

The main customer service desk is one of the first things you see when you walk into the Redmond Library, and it’s here where you’ll often find Public Services Specialist Christiano Mazziotti. “I love forming relationships with people who come through the door,” he says. Christiano works with many of the library’s dedicated volunteers as a volunteer liaison; he also jumps at the chance to help customers with any technological issues. “Whether it’s helping people with their eReaders, or working with them to solve a computer-related issue, getting to work one-on-one with fantastic customers has been incredibly rewarding,” he says. If you like novels with a nautical bent, Christiano is your guy. “My favorite book is Moby Dick,” he says. “As a huge fan of all things nautical, this book has always captured my imagination and inspired a lot of deep thoughts related to Herman Melville’s unique 19th-century writing style.” If you need help downloading Moby Dick to a tablet or eReader—or just want to talk books—be sure to look for Christiano!

Carmen Lawson • Redmond

As Carmen Lawson’s three children grew older, she was ready to start a new phase in her life: getting a Master of Arts in Teaching so she could achieve her goal of being an elementary school teacher. She enrolled in the OSU-Cascades program in Bend, but because she lives in Redmond she found that she needed a quiet study place closer to home. She found her place at the Redmond Library. “I needed a quiet study area,” Carmen says. “Once in a while I’d go to coffee shops, but that isn’t necessarily quiet. The library served that purpose for me. I didn’t have to buy anything to be here, and it was quiet.” Carmen would study at the library almost weekly, in two- to three-hour sessions that kept her focused. “When I’d be at home trying to do my homework I’d be distracted by the dog, by the kids, by getting dinner ready,” she says. “But when I’m here, I can totally focus on academics and get it done.” Carmen completed her coursework, got her Master of Arts in Teaching, and started as a kindergarten teacher this fall. “The library served a big role in me being successful in my program because I had a place to study,” Carmen says. Now that the homework is behind her, she’s looking forward to using her library again in a different capacity: to check out stacks of books for her classroom. Thanks for letting us take part as you reached for your goals, Carmen!
