Welcome!

Summer comes to its official close in late September, but there's still tons of fun to be had at your library regardless of the season. You'll find dozens of programs for people of all ages in this guide. We welcome you to join us at these free events!

Sixth Annual Pumpkin Decorating Contest

Celebrate the arrival of fall with a spirited Pumpkin Decorating Contest in October! Bring your favorite storybook character to life for our Annual Pumpkin Decorating Contest. Bedazzle, draw, paint, feather, or dress up your pumpkin to fill our patch on display at all library locations. It's fun for the whole family! Visit <https://dpl.pub/pumpkincontest6> for rules and dates.

Using This Guide

You'll find full descriptions and more information for all programs on our web calendar at <https://dpl.pub/events>. The web calendar is also your go-to place for any programs that require registration. Because things sometimes change, be sure to check the web calendar before attending any in-person events.

OCTOBER

Know Ancient

Discover ancient mysteries and civilizations linking us to a distant past as we explore Know Ancient in October. Learn what makes Oregon's ancient forests so remarkable and explore the millennia-old history of psilocybin. Get lost in the vastness of our solar system with a stargazing event and attend a Death Café. Go spelunking and hear anecdotes about the history of Redmond Caves. Take a unique look at the history of the guitar and lute through historical performance.

NOVEMBER

Know Flight

November is National Aviation Month. Get a 30,000-foot view with programs centered around Know Flight. Hear first-hand tales from a professional pilot to find out if aviation school is for you, and consider how the flight attendant field became a social battleground over civil rights struggles. Look and listen towards the sky as we search for migrating and year-round flocks. Hear from local author Mike Lankford as he discusses humanity's attempts at flight.

In 2023 we celebrate 20 years of A Novel Idea...Read Together, which is Deschutes Public Library's annual community read project. We've read amazing books and had thought-provoking discussions over the past 19 years, and we can promise you that the 20th year is definitely going to be one for the books. Be the first to know and to get your hands on the next community read by joining us at the Downtown Bend Library on December 3 at 6:00 p.m. for this free and fun event. The unveiling is an annual celebration of literature and community, with hundreds gathering to get the first word on what the next A Novel Idea will be. So mark your calendars now and join us on December 3 as we turn the page on the next chapter of A Novel Idea!

PEOPLE

MAKING YOUR LIBRARY WORK

CUSTOMER PROFILE

THE COWAN FAMILY

A love of learning is important to the Cowan family. Qorbin uses Hoopla to download Sonic the Hedgehog comics and his younger brother Caylob plays educational games on the children's computers. Makenah and Makaelah pick books off the shelf and locate a quiet space to flip pages. Sienah finds her way around the children's play place with ease while the youngest, Claire, is most content stacking wooden blocks by herself. From age one to infinity, the library provides opportunities to learn and grow together as a family. Alissa Cowan and her six children have been library lovers since the very beginning. "One of my most cherished library moments was going to story time with a bunch of other families and holding my firstborn son, Qorbin, in my arms," says Alissa. Fast-forward a decade and Alissa still integrates library trips into her family's outings. "We visit all six branches because each one is so unique. The children love finding books to take home, and get excited when they can read something new. Qorbin and Caylob even have their own library cards, giving them the responsibility of checking out and returning books on their own," says Alissa. She knows about the full spectrum of offerings from the library, which goes beyond books, and recently discovered that as a library cardholder she can reserve a meeting room to assemble care packages for her local non-profit, I Am Seen. With so much to see and do at the library, we are eager to hear what the Cowan family will discover next!

COVER ARTIST

LILIANNE SCEARCY

A child learning to read is one of the most wondrous joys, however it doesn't always come naturally. Lilianne shared she struggled with reading in her early years. "My parents read Dr. Seuss books to me, and eventually I found the Chronicles of Narnia series—that kept me up reading way past my bedtime," she says. The motivation of reading one more page or one more chapter quickly turned into the reward of one more book and one more series. Her passion for children's literature resonates on the Events guide cover. Lilianne was "gobsmacked" when she learned her artwork was chosen. "When I started drawing, I didn't even think I would submit anything for the contest," says Lilianne. "I went in with the mindset of 'we'll see what happens' as I started the project." On par with the whimsical, dream-like cover, her reading style is primarily fantasy with a dash of magic. "I read a lot of heroic fantasy. One of my current favorites is The Name of the Wind from The Kingkiller Chronicles series," says Lilianne. "And I could not live without audiobooks from Libby. Audiobooks allow me to experience books while focusing on my hobbies, like bug pinning and costume making."

STAFF PROFILE

LYDIA ALVAREZ

Sisters Library

Celebrating her one-year work anniversary in June, Lydia joins the Sisters Library from a line of library workers. "My mother started working at a library when I was five and I volunteered there for many years," says Lydia. "Working at a library again feels like a homecoming." This important work as a Public Services Specialist equips Lydia to make connections with people in the community and expand their knowledge of all library services. "Libraries are not just about books. They represent communities and sharing knowledge at every level. It can be an anchor of stability for many people." Not only in Sisters, but all across Deschutes County residents can count on libraries to provide resources to succeed and find answer to questions. Lydia is a big fan of memoirs and biographies and one such book that holds a special spot on her shelf is Born a Crime by Trevor Noah. When she needs more than a book to pique her interest she enlists help from the Library of Things collection. "I try to check out one item from the collection when I'm visiting another library location. So far my favorite is the pasta maker from the East Bend Library." Buon appetito!

Thanks to all the wonderful artwork submissions from our community. View the entries online at <https://dpl.pub/entries>. The next deadline for cover art submissions is October 22 (for the December/January guide). Find contest rules and instructions online and at your local library.

Exciting things are happening with your library!

THE WORD IS OUT—Deschutes County is a desirable place to live. While growth can present challenges, it also provides remarkable opportunities for innovation in how we serve the community. In 2014 Deschutes Public Library began a visioning process with the people of Deschutes County to explore what they'd like to see in their future libraries. After six years of planning and meeting with more than 6,500 community members, we brought our vision to the voters—and they supported the Library's bond measure to expand and improve libraries across the county. We are excited to put vision into action to provide outstanding library spaces and services for decades to come.

What's happening in Redmond?

Like much of Central Oregon, Redmond has grown by leaps and bounds in the past 20 years. The Redmond Library serves as a dynamic community hub, and we're excited to grow that hub to a 40,000-square-foot library befitting the growth of the city. The new library will remain in its current location between Cascade and Deschutes Avenues.

The current Redmond Library is scheduled to close in mid-January 2023 in preparation for the expansion. Once that location closes, a temporary Redmond Library will open at 2127 S Highway 97 in Redmond. We anticipate the new Redmond Library to open its doors in Fall 2024.

ONCE COMPLETE, the new Redmond Library—which will double the size of the current library—will feature:

- Multi-purpose meeting and study rooms
- Creative and DIY areas
- Children's discovery spaces
- A civic patio
- Collaborative and co-working area
- Solar power and EV charging stations
- Drive-up window
- Dedicated teen space
- Jesse Hill School History Walk

What's happening with the La Pine, Sisters, and Sunriver Libraries?

These smaller, neighborhood libraries are beloved by their communities and are being renovated to bring their services and collections into the 21st Century. All three libraries will close temporarily during renovations.

La Pine Library & Sisters Library: These libraries will close in January 2023; they'll re-open in the Fall 2023. Both of these popular libraries are located in the civic hearts of their communities, near the downtown areas and near schools. Each location's planned renovation will create bright and open spaces that welcome the community with amenities such as flexible meeting and tutoring rooms, an enhanced children's discovery space, a cozy fireplace and reading area, and a large community gathering space. The temporary La Pine Library will open just across the parking lot at the John C. Johnson Building (16405 B 1st Street in La Pine). The temporary Sisters Library will be on the site of the current library, on the corner of Main and Cedar. For more information about what's happening at the La Pine and Sisters Libraries, visit dpl.pub/futurelapine and dpl.pub/futuresisters.

Sunriver Library: The Sunriver Library will temporarily close for its remodel in Summer 2023.

What's happening with the planned library location at Stevens Ranch in east Bend?

DPL is currently in the due diligence period for the purchase of a 10-acre parcel at Stevens Ranch in east Bend. Once the due diligence is complete, designs for the new library will continue. The Stevens Ranch location will provide: large community gathering spaces, study rooms, and innovative DIY/creative spaces; an interactive discovery space for children to learn and play; a co-working space for busy professionals; computer labs with the latest technologies; and an expanded materials collection for readers of all ages. Follow the planning and progress at dpl.pub/futurelibraries

Is the Downtown Bend Library closing?

No. The Downtown Bend Library, currently the largest library in the Deschutes Public Library system, is not closing. Plans for a robust remodel—which will feature more public spaces, additional meeting rooms, and a DIY space—are underway. This will be the last library in the Deschutes Public Library System to be remodeled, likely in 2025.

What about the current East Bend Library?

The current East Bend Library location is the only location that is not owned by the Deschutes Public Library District; the library is currently in year three of the location's five-year lease. The East Bend Library will remain open through at least its lease term.

Will I still be able to get books, even if the library closest to me temporarily closes?

Yes! The La Pine, Sisters, and Redmond Libraries will have smaller, satellite locations in operation during the closure for customers to pick up and check out books, as well as do limited browsing. We are also partnering with other organizations in each community to provide space for library programs.

Is the Library building a performing arts center?

No, the Library is not building a performing arts center at any of its current or planned locations. All libraries will include enhanced meeting and programming spaces of varying sizes, which was one of the top requests made by the more than 6,500 people who took part in visioning future library spaces.

BUT WE OFFER SO MUCH MORE!

Discovery Passes

Check out a museum pass to a variety of venues, including the High Desert Museum, the Deschutes Historical Museum, and the Sunriver Nature Center and Observatory. Discovery Pass lets you check out passes online. (Note: There is a limited number of passes available on any given day.)

Library of Things

We have dozens of items in our Library of Things collection! Bike repair kits, sewing machines, an electronic keyboard, an air fryer—the list goes on. Check out a “thing” and try something new today!

Board Games

Borrow a board game from the library to play with family or friends! Whether you're looking for a casual game or more complex world building, the board games collection has something for everyone.

Curriculum Crates

Take a deep dive into engaging topics with a Curriculum Crate from the library. Each crate is chock-full of 20–25 books on popular subjects often used in schools, from ancient civilizations to the weather.

Story Time To-Go Kits

You can host your own story time at home! These kits contain fun books and reproducible rhyme and craft sheets centered on popular story time themes.

Mobile Hotspots

Deschutes County residents can check out for up to three weeks at a time.

Maps

While most mobile devices offer a map app, sometimes a physical map is the best bet. You can borrow atlases as well as sturdy road, trail, and topographic maps from Central Oregon and beyond.

dpl.pub/BeyondTheBooks

Coming this winter A new way to find what you're looking for—and more

This winter, Deschutes Public Library begins organizing print materials in a new way that will make browsing easier. The Library has long used the Dewey Decimal System to organize nonfiction materials. But in the last decade, an increasing number of public libraries have begun organizing their books in a way that closely resembles how bookstores are organized: by genres and categories.

We will begin organizing our collections by category in Winter 2022/2023. This new system is called Wayfinder. The goal is to make it easier for you to browse the collection and to find your way to the books you're interested in. You'll begin noticing some changes in December, and we'll have much more information for you in the coming months. While getting used to Wayfinder, remember that there is always a knowledgeable library staff member available to help if you have any questions. In the meantime, you can learn more at <https://dpl.pub/wayfinder-faq>

Events are free, open to the public, and for all ages unless otherwise noted. Times, dates, and locations are subject to change. Wearing a face covering is optional at all in-person, indoor events.
